

PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

YOUR TRUSTED PARTNER FOR THREAT OPERATIONS AND MANAGEMENT

As an emerging market and way of doing things, ThreatQuotient™ believes it is key to be on the journey with our clients.

ThreatQuotient™ Professional Services provide the core capabilities of assess, design and build for your next-generation security operations. The goal is to create and begin the strategic path necessary to effectively utilize threat intelligence within your security program, whether that involves leveraging intelligence only through automation or staffing and supporting a threat analyst team within the organization.

ASSESSMENT SERVICES

ThreatQuotient experts work with clients to assess the current state of threat intelligence within their operations from both organizational and functional perspectives. Services include process, technology, resources and capacity assessment; understanding client needs and defining workflow to support. The results are a strategic plan and environment-specific recommendations for implementing a technical architecture and intelligence-driven security program for threat operations and management.

Capabilities, Processes, Procedures, Technology

How “good” are we at executing our roles?
Is intelligence integrated into how we execute and communicate?

Capacity, Resources, Structure, Support

What kinds of capabilities can we leverage based on our people and structure?
How well are our people trained to leverage threat intelligence?

DESIGN SERVICES

Threat intelligence experts provide design and operational training around threat intelligence. Services include intelligence operations and platform training, as well as training on how to integrate a platform with the rest of a client's security infrastructure; installation and configuration of environment-specific integrations, use cases and workflow; and advanced product training.

BUILD SERVICES

ThreatQuotient provides build and implementation services to create custom connectors between the ThreatQ™ platform and other security tools and systems used in the client environment. Additional development can also be performed to create automated workflows within the platform, set attributes against data sets/feeds, auto-enrich specific indicator sets or provide specific deployment actions against intelligence.
